

Time Off and Leave Options During Isolation or Quarantine

We have prepared the following guide to support you and your employees as you determine appropriate time off and leave eligibility during COVID-19 isolation or quarantine. Telework should be discussed as an option, prior to using any available time off or leave.

Please note: The below time off and leave options have been formatted within the chart in the priority order that they should be used. If the first available time off and leave option is exhausted or the employee is not eligible for this option, move to the right for the next available time off and leave option. For example, first determine if the employee is eligible for Administrative Leave. If the employee is not, then determine if Pandemic Time is available.
