

NOTICE TO EMPLOYEES ELIGIBLE TO PARTICIPATE IN THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY RETIREMENT PLANS

November 12, 2021

The George Washington University Retirement Plan for Faculty and Staff (the “Retirement Plan”) and the George Washington University Supplemental Retirement Plan (the “403(b) Plan”) (collectively, the “Plans”) permit you to direct the investment of your account in a number of available investment funds. The funds are available through two providers: Fidelity and TIAA. Fidelity administers the Fidelity and Vanguard funds and TIAA administers the TIAA funds. To invest your account, you need only choose an investment provider, or choose how to divide your contributions between the two providers, and then choose among the investment options offered by each.

FAILURE TO PROVIDE ADEQUATE INVESTMENT DIRECTION

In the event you don’t choose an investment provider or you choose Fidelity but do not designate an investment fund, your contributions will automatically be invested in the Fidelity Freedom Funds. If you choose TIAA with which to invest your contributions but do not designate one of its underlying investment funds, your contributions will be invested in the TIAA Lifecycle Funds.

You may choose to transfer out of a default fund and into any other investment option under the Plans at any time. There are no restrictions on, or fees or expenses charged for, moving out of a default fund. You may also make changes to your investment elections for future contributions and/or exchange all or a portion of an existing balance into other options available under the Plans via the applicable website or by phone.

To obtain information about other investment options, to change investment direction, or to exchange all or a portion of an existing balance to other investment options, you may (i) visit www.netbenefits.com/GW and follow the instructions to access the appropriate vendor; (ii) call 1-800-343-0860 to speak to a representative about investments administered by Fidelity; or call 1-800-842-2776 to speak to a representative about investments administered by TIAA.

THE DEFAULT FUNDS

The Fidelity Freedom Funds and the TIAA Lifecycle Funds are “retirement target-date funds.” This means that each fund’s assets are allocated based on the assumption that the person holding its shares will retire in the year indicated by the fund’s name. These funds are professionally managed and use a strategically developed, disciplined investment approach. These funds seek to provide high total return until the target date. Accordingly, the investments are adjusted over time, becoming more conservative as the target date approaches. The Fidelity Freedom Funds are described in more detail below. The TIAA Lifecycle Funds are described in more detail beginning on page [8].

Before investing in any mutual fund, please carefully consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses. For this and other information, call or write Fidelity or TIAA for a free prospectus. Read it carefully before you invest.

The investment options available through the plan reserve the right to modify or withdraw the exchange privilege.

Unless otherwise noted, transaction requests confirmed after the close of the market, normally 4 p.m. Eastern time, or on weekends or holidays, will receive the next available closing prices.

The Plan is intended to be a participant-directed plan as described in Section 404(c) of ERISA, which means that fiduciaries of the Plan are ordinarily relieved of liability for any losses that are the direct and necessary result of investment instructions given by a participant or beneficiary.

In the event of a discrepancy between this notice and the terms of the Plan, the plan document will govern.

Fidelity Freedom Funds

The Fidelity Freedom Funds invest in a diversified portfolio of other Fidelity mutual funds. The underlying mutual funds held by the Fidelity Freedom Funds may invest in domestic equities, international equities, investment-grade fixed-income securities, high yield fixed-income securities, and short term instruments. Performance of the Fidelity Freedom Funds depends on the performance of the underlying Fidelity funds in which they invest. These funds are subject to the volatility of the financial markets in the U.S. and abroad and may be subject to the additional risks associated with investing in high yield, small cap and foreign securities.

After reaching the target retirement date, the Fidelity Freedom Funds continue to be managed more conservatively for 10 to 19 more years until their asset mix is approximately the same as the Fidelity Income Fund. Ultimately, the funds will merge into the Freedom Income Fund. The Freedom Income Fund is designed for those who are already retired, seek high current income, and as a secondary objective, capital appreciation. It is invested more conservatively, with a larger percentage in fixed-income and short-term funds and has a smaller percentage of equity mutual funds.

It is important to keep in mind that the target-date funds are designed to become more conservative as they near their target retirement date. However, like all investments, they involve risk and principal in the funds is not guaranteed at any time, including the fund's target date. It is possible to lose money by investing in these funds.

The Fidelity Freedom Funds used as a default fund are based on the assumption that the participant will retire at age 65. The following table indicates which fund your contributions will be directed to, as determined by the Plan's investment fiduciary, based on your date of birth.

*The gross expense ratio is the total annual fund or class operating expenses (before waivers or reimbursements) paid by the fund and stated as a percent of the fund's total net assets.

For a mutual fund, the expense ratio is the total annual fund or class operating expenses (before waivers or reimbursements) paid by the fund and stated as a percent of the fund's total net assets. Where the investment option is not a mutual fund, the figure displayed in the expense ratio field is intended to reflect similar information. However, it may have been calculated using methodologies that differ from those used for mutual funds. Mutual fund data has been drawn from the most recent prospectus. For non-mutual fund investment options, the information has been provided by the trustee or plan sponsor. When no ratio is shown for these options it is due to the fact that none was available. Nevertheless, there may be fees and expenses associated with the investment option. Expense ratios change periodically. Please consult the most recent prospectus for current data.

Before investing, consider the funds' investment objectives, risks, charges, and expenses. Contact Fidelity for a prospectus or, if available, a summary prospectus containing this information. Read it carefully.

TIAA LIFECYCLE FUNDS

The TIAA Lifecycle Funds offer eleven target date funds that range from 2010 to 2060 (in five year increments). A target date or lifecycle fund is managed based on the specific retirement year (target date) included in its name and assumes an estimated retirement age of approximately 65. In addition to age or retirement date, investors should consider factors such as their risk tolerance, personal circumstances, and complete financial situation before choosing to invest in a target date fund. These funds are generally designed for investors who expect to invest in a fund until they retire (the target date), and then begin making gradual systematic withdrawals afterward. There is no guarantee that an investment in a target date fund will provide adequate retirement income, and investors can lose money at any stage of investment, even near or after the target date.

Target date funds employ glidepaths, which are the planned progression of asset allocation changes (e.g., mix of equity and fixed-income investments) along specific points in time. A fund's glidepath generally shows how its asset allocation shifts from a more aggressive to a more conservative investment approach as the fund moves toward and beyond its target date. Each Lifecycle Fund's investments adjust over time as the target date approaches, and continue to adjust for an additional seven to ten years before reaching its final allocation.

The TIAA Lifecycle Funds used as a default fund are based on the assumption that the participant will retire at age 65. The following table indicates which fund your contributions will be directed to, as determined by the Plan's investment fiduciary, based on your date of birth.

Fund Name	Years to Retirement (assuming a retirement age of 65)	Date of Birth Range
